PREFACE.

The compilation of a Directory is a work of no small magnitude, considering the minutiae of statistical detail into which it is necessary to enter, and the difficulty with which such information is correctly gained; therefore, should an occasional error be observed, a discerning public will remember that our matter is gathered from hundreds of individuals, many of whom but partially understand what is wanted of them, or why it is wanted.

Since the last work of the kind was issued here, five years ago, the population and business of our towns have much increased, new streets have been opened, numerous and important changes have been made in the appearance of the old ones—all rendering a new Directory not only necessary, but almost absolutely indispensable.

Our price cannot be regarded as unreasonable, when the limited edition and the style in which it is gotten up are considered. An embossed cover, an almanac and memorandum, increased size and other attractions, add no little to the expense of the work.

The Publishers take this opportunity to tender their grateful acknowledgments to those of our citizens who have given their aid in the collection of the desired information; and they also acknowledge their obligations to advertisers, in the full belief that a four-fold advantage will be reaped for every dollar thus expended.

CYRUS GREENWOOD,

AGENT OF THE

Conn. Mutual Life Insurance Company,
HARTFORD.

THIS Company was incorporated, May, 1816. Its system of operation is purely mutual, and thereby partakes essentially of the nature of a SAVINGS INSTITUTION. The insured become members entitled to all its privileges. When the Premium amounts to $50 or over, only one half is required in cash, the balance may be a note, which will be cancelled by the annual dividends of the Company. The success of this Company, during the year ending Jan. 31, 1850, has been unparalleled. Some 4000 policies have been issued; all losses have been promptly paid; and the scrip of their first dividend will be redeemed after the first of March next.

Their Capital has now amounted to a sum which renders the Company in point of permanency beyond a suspicion.
